

Fun in Cincinnati

Late on the night of April 15th when I drove down to the post office to file my taxes the traffic was all backed up for blocks hundreds of volunteers were lining the street handing out free donuts, dressed like clowns, etc. There was music too.

so I found myself creeping toward the post office in a tax time procession eating a donut a postal employee runs up to your car window, says see you next year!, grabs your envelopes runs a few yards ahead, hands it off to another postal employee who tosses it away in a white canvas bin

and it was quite fun